Progress of New England.

The Philadelphia Pressays: Michael G. Malhall, the well known English statistician, begins in the North American Review for May a series of articles on the progress of the United States. 'In order to study the subject more closely he divides the Union into five great com-munities, namely, New England, the Middle, the Southern, the Prairie and the Pacific States. The progress made by New England is the subject of his prohirst article. He treats it under the two dates for comparing the progress made. The advance in manufactures in these forty years Mr. Mulhall shows to have been as follows: In 1850 New England's annual manufactured product .
